SENATOR JONES.

His Ohio Affiliations—Opinions of Senator Payne.

A New York special to the Cincinnati Enquirer says: Senator Jones, of Nevada, with whom I was chatting lately at the Hoffman House, told me that the pleasantest days of his life were his boyhood days about Cleveland. He counts Ohio as his native State, although born in England. The Senator pleads guilty to the Alaska gold mine story, but says $100,000,000 is too large an estimate of its value. His brother is Postmaster at Cleveland, and I asked him by what "pull" he retained that place. He replied that he had written his brother within a few days advising that he send his resignation to Mr. Cleveland.

"There is an inside history to his retention of the place under this administration. Way back in the days when Dick Parsons represented the Cleveland district in Congress, my brother and 'Dick' fell out. My brother supported Henry B. Payne in the big fight, when the latter whipped Parsons for Congress. You can understand that Senator Payne would be slow to intimate that he wanted the Postoffice for any one else."

I asked Mr. Jones in what regard Senator Payne is held in Washington among his associates.

"No man stands higher," he replied. "It seems to be understood that this attack upon him in Ohio is stirred up by his old antagonists, Pendleton and Thurman, both disappointed men. As between Payne and Pendleton there is no comparison. Payne is the superior of the other in every attribute of manhood and in his real position and standing among men forty thousand leagues at least."

A Stanford Dinner.

Governor and Mrs. Stanford will give a grand entertainment on Monday evening, February 8th, to the Pacific Coast delegations. Many distinguished people have been invited. The reception, it is said, will eclipse anything seen in Washington for many a day.

E. J. Carpeaux, the old pioneer of Railroad District, who last week sold out his property and business in that camp to A. S. Eisenberg, took leave of his Elko friends this morning and departed by the train for California, in which State he has a snug property, and where he will probably hereafter reside —if the mysterious charm of the sage does not prove, as it has in so many instances, an irresistable influence to draw him back this side of the Sierras. It is a remarkable fact that few of the old-time Nevadans have ever contented themselves beyond the borders of the Silver State, and should Ed. find himself unable to withstand the subtle yearning for these altitudinous regions, he may feel assured of a hearty welcome by his many Nevada friends.—Elko Independent.

And when he returns he will be eligible for the Senate.

The newspaper men who sent out the interviews which Surveyor-General Dement, of Utah, now repudiates, will ask the Public Land Committee of the Senate to grant them a hearing in order that they may vindicate themselves and give the sources of their information.

Sheriff Hopkins, who for the past ten years has kept the bar at the Grand Hotel, San Francisco, has sold out to a combination consisting of John T. Doyle, of the Lick, and Edward Fay, of the Palace Hotel. The price is said to be in the neighborhood of $10,000.

Ex-Congressman Samuel F. Barr, of Bar Harbor, Maine, says that the Presidential fight in 1888 will be between Senators Sherman and Logan. We bar this prediction.

Hugh J. Mohan will be appointed Assistant Doorkeeper of the House of Representatives at $1,200 per annum.

Very cold weather is reported throughout Minnesota, Dakota and Montana.

Tally another mark for Gen. Crook.

A PROBLEM FOR CONGRESS.

Proposed Measures for Dealing with Pacific Railroad Debts.

The New York Star, Mr. Dorsheimer's paper, a Democratic organ of high respectability, prints this instructive editorial on the Pacific roads and the Government debt:

"The consideration of the Pacific railroad-bond accounts has been entered upon by Congress by the introduction of several bills dealing with their settlement. The bills proceed upon two opposite theories, namely, that of letting the Government take possession of the roads whenever a fault shall occur, assuming the first mortgages and operating the road as to repay itself the arrears of indebtedness out of the earnings. The other, that of allowing the roads to remain in the hands of the stockholders, and extending the time for repayment of the Government advances over such period as will bring the annual payments within the earning capacity of the roads.

"The first committee which dealt with the Pacific Railroad enterprise, in 1849, soon after the discovery of gold in California, reported against it as utterly impracticable and as unworthy the Government's attention. In 1862, however, public sentiment had so far changed, and the sectional controversy was so threatening, that both political parties demanded an iron railway to the Pacific as bond of union for the then none too closely knit States. The debates of the time show a disposition to grant whatever aid was necessary to bring about the speedy creation of the road, with some misgivings as to whether the Government would not, after private exertions had failed, have to assume the burden of completing it. No one in those days was sanguine enough to suppose that the venture would prove a financial success, unless, indeed, we except the few conspicuously cautious capitalists who embarked the bulk of their fortunes in the enterprise, and that larger number of visionary theorists who can never contribute toward success any more than their words.

"The prominent business men of that day showed the same apprehensions, as did the legislators, that further appeals for aid would be coming to Congress on behalf of the Pacific Railroad for a generation to come. All this, with the light of our present experience, looks absurd enough, when we have transcontinental railways bidding for the business which one set of rails could abundantly accommodate. But the contract with the first Pacific Railroad companies was made with the lights then available, and by the rare good fortune of passing into the hands of practical men of affairs as a private enterprise, rather than as a public work out of a public treasury in the hands of public officers, the enterprise was carried through to completion in half the stipulated time. It has performed valuable services for the Government in suppressing Indian disturbances, conveying military supplies and mails, opening new mines of metallic wealth, and, more than all, in binding and consolidating the whole Union together, so that if not a dollar in money were to be returned to the Treasury, beyond the services of the roads, the Government would be a gainer by the transaction.

"It is shown from official data that were the transportation which was carried over the road after its completion to be done by the modes of conveyance in use before its construction it would have amounted to nearly $10,000,000 per annum, whereas the actual cost by by railroad was short of $3,500,000 per annum, leaving a difference of $6,500,000 saved to the Treasury by the existence of the road. But this is not all. The Government, under the old regime, was its own insurer, and had to pay, not only for the freight lost, but also for the wagons and animals captured or destroyed; and the service is done so much more expeditiously and certainly, as to leave no comparison, either in kind or degree, between the two periods of service.

"As a mere business investment, therefore, the United States could have afforded to build the Pacific Railroad—if that were any part of its normal function—for its own transportation, regardless of the prestige, convenience and utility to the public. Everything it could have obtained from the companies, and is expecting, also, repayment of the money, or rather credit, advances in aid of construction. The alternate section of land granted have more than doubled the value of the retained sections, so that even this species of aid redounds also to the benefit of the country.

"Mr. Wilson, of the Senate, seems to cherish some antipathy towards the Union Pacific Company, apparently because his suggestions and recommendations while acting as a Government Director were not heeded. He appears to have been in favor of paying over surplus money into the United States Treasury, instead of expending it in the building of branches and feeders to the main line, and he enumerates stocks and bonds of these tributary companies aggregating a face value of $55,000,000, some of which, he thinks, might have been devoted to extinguishing the Government debt, This is a question of business policy about which able and conscientious men may fairly differ; and it must be conceded that these additions strengthen the ability of the companies to meet their engagements. It should also be noted that President Adams favors turning over these assets to offset the debt.

"To a business man, to an experienced lawyer, or a far-seeing statesman, the difficulties to be encountered by starting the Government in the business of conducting railroads are so serious that not until every other resource has been tried, with failure, could such a plan be entertained. Senator Wilson is reported to be a far-sighted man of affairs, and probably does not mean to embark the Government in a money-losing affair in working a Pacific Railroad, especially as the loss would have to be made good either by taxing the whole people in order to carry on this transcontinental traffic at less than the service is worth, or, conversely, by taxing unduly those patrons who must use the road because they can use no other, and who, from their remoteness from markets climate and topographical obstacles, are most deserving of encouragement. This entire debt, if paid at all must be paid from tolls levied upon passengers and freight. The railroad builts after the Central Union line had double the land grant, and were built at a time when the lower prices of labor and materials reduced the cost to one-half. Even Congress cannot take possession of the Union Pacific without assuming the first mortgage bonds, which precede the Government claim. So that the newer roads would carry the through business at rates yielding small profit, while the older one, in the hand of the Government, was doing so at a loss. Legislators cannot cheerfully confront such an alternative.

"This is not all. The Government aided only by a main line from Omaha to the Bay of San Francisco, and has no claim on the numerous branches, feeders, extensions and terminals, and the tributary steamer lines which it did not aid. How long would it be before the business of these would be diverted to the opposition lines? Turn the problem in whatever way we will, the compulsory theory of pursuing legislation will not bring back the money into the Treasury, but may involve sending more good money after that which is in peril, to say nothing of the liability of the Government to damages for breach of contract. A peaceful, fair composition will secure the money and stop litigation.

"By the original Act interest on the aid bonds was not required to be currently repaid (except in services,) and five per cent. of the net earnings were to be applied to the principal. The reason for this is obvious. The road could not be expected to earn interest during the fourteen to twenty years allowed, but not exhausted, for construction, and when the lein of the Government was postponed in favor of private capitalists, who advanced an equal amount of money, one half of the mail compensation, etc., was allowed to be paid over to meet the interest on that preferred debt. The Thurman Act undertook to vary the terms of the contract (without the consent of one of the parties), by authorizing all the compensation to be withheld—one half to be applied toward the Government debt, and the other half to be invested for the benefit of the company and applicable to the debts in the order of their priority.

"This sinking fund money belongs, not to the Government, but to the companies; but is invested in Government bonds at high premiums (of which the latter are liable to be lost), where it may earn little or nothing, instead of being used for buying up and canceling their first mortgage bonds. As a reliance for meeting the debts the sinking fund has proved a failure, and is so regarded by successive Secretaries of the Treasury, by the Railroad Commissioners and by all who have studied the subject. The Supreme Court, by a bare majority, decided that the Government might require a reasonable additional security for the payment of its indebtedness; but if the case were to be retired, it might now readily decide that the Thurman Act was a most unreasonable and nugatory provision for meeting the debt.

"The bill reported by the Judiciary Committee at the last session proceeds upon the other theory, that of ascertaining the probable ability of the companies from their net earnings, after all charges have been met, and spreading the payment of the entire indebtedness to the Government, principal and interest, so that by equal semi-annual installments the whole may be paid as rapidly as consistent with the maintenance of the road in good order. This is a settlement on business principles, such as individuals or institutions would settle under like circumstances. There will not be lacking demagogues and speculators, who from obvious selfish motives, will take advantage of this deliberation in Congress to urge violent measures against the companies; but it must be borne in mind that there has yet been no default in the payment of the obligations to the Government. No actual default is likely to occur for ten years to come, unless Congress, by some oppressive measure, shall precipitate a default in the first mortgages. It is to be regretted that Congress has not referred this question to a commission composed of practical accountants and financiers. It is one totally unsuited to the pursuits and methods of the average legislator, and its introduction serves as the signal opportunity for speculation and political passion. The sentiment of the business community is in favor of a settlement that will discharge the whole debt and interest. As the Government is not in need of money and can borrow, if required, at 2½ per cent., there can be no objection to letting the subsidy debt run, after maturity, at 3 per cent., provided that with each half year the debt and interest is actually becoming smaller."

A NICE REFORMER.

Convicted and Punished for Fraud and Then Made Postmaster.

CHICAGO, February 1.—The Daily News' Chippewa Falls (Wis.) special says that the people of Flambeau are very much agitated over the appointment of John G. Norton as Postmaster, and will make a vigorous protest against his confirmation. He was Clerk of the town in 1884, and it is alleged that in that capacity he robbed the corporation by drawing orders to fictitious persons, which were signed by the town Chairman and paid by the town Treasurer, who were also in the conspiracy. The two latter turned State's evidence and were let off with nominal fines, while Norton was convicted and paid a heavy fine to escape imprisonment. In a civil action the town also recovered the amount of his share of the plunder. Norton was then a Republican, and was Postmaster, but was at once removed from the latter office, and in the recent campaign he blossomed out as a Democrat and a candidate for Indian Agent. Failing to get this office, he received the Postoffice, to the surprise of every one. During the war Norton was a Second Lieutenant in Colonel Vilas' regiment, and it is supposed that this fact accounts for his appointment.

Another Great Advance.

The Railway Telegraph and Telephone Company gave an exhibition on Staten Island Monday, of a new method of sending and receiving telegraphic messages on a railway train under full headway. Among those on the train were Governor Leland Stanford, Vice President Sykes, of the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad, David Dows, Vice President of the Rock Island Railroad, Stuyvesant Fish, of the Illinois Central, and Thomas A. Edison.

A battery was in one of the passenger cars with a ground wire connecting with the axle of a wheel and the track. The other wire connected with the tin roof of the car. The car roofs were connected with an insolated wire. The common electric magnet worked by a Morse key, was used. From the car roof, messages were transmitted by induction to permanent wires on poles along the line of the railroad, a distance of from twenty five to thirty-five feet. Messages were sent to and from New York and other points with perfect facility while the train was running at thirty miles an hour. Mr. Edison said that the new wonder in telegraphy would be introduced at once on the Illinois Central Railroad.

The Utah Canard.

A Washington Dispatch says Surveyor-General Dement, of Utah, was examined by the Senate Committee on Public Lands Tuesday, with reference to the recent publications which embodied alleged utterances of his, implicating Senators, Members of Congress and high executive officials in Washington and in Utah, in extensive conspiracies to misappropriate the public lands for their own benefit, and in conspiracies to influence, by bribery, legislation affecting the Mormons. Dement denied the statements attributed to him without reservation.

Surrender of Geronimo.

Major Robinson, Army Paymster at El Paso, Texas, received a dispatch from Fort Bayard, New Mexico, Tuesday, which stated that a courier had just arrived there who brought a message from Lang's ranch which contained information of the unconditional surrender of the Apache Chief Geronimo to Lieutenant Maus, who succeeded the late Captain Crawford.

LET US SEE.—Yesterday a man offered to bet ten dollars even up that although Reno had taken hold of the anti-Chinese movement two weeks later than Carson they would have their town clear of coolies first. Let us see that the man who bets on Reno loses.—Carson Appeal.

MORE SLURS AT NEVADA.

The Eureka Sentinel correctly remarks:

Since the demands made on the Administration concerning the opening of the Carson Mint, some of the eastern papers have taken occasion to give us, as a State, a piece of gratuitous advice about modesty, etc. The New York World hints that "the Nevada people would do well to keep as quiet as possible about running unprofitable Mints or other things at the public expense, to furnish them with wages." Nevada has, so to speak, not only a black eye, but a bruised body. She is suffering from the business depression general over the Pacific Coast, and an attempt is being made to strangle and destroy her chief industry. More than this, we are advised by metropolitan papers of the East to keep quiet; otherwise a punishment evidently awaits us. What is wrong? The State has produced since it ceased to be a Territory more wealth than it is liable to consume, even though its population quadruples, in the next ten years. Through the revenue laws and other sources the Government has received its proportion, and a good large proportion it has been. The only appropriation worth speaking of that the State has ever received from the Government was that of $100,000 for a public building at Carson, and that construction is meant for the accommodation of her servants, and not as a return favor for the millions in gold and silver we have given the country and for the millions we continue to produce yearly. When that building is completed and occupied then will cease the rents for at least a dozen good apartment and buildings now owned by private individuals. It is to stop the payment of these rents that prompted Congress to construct a Government building; so that we, as a State, will not receive the principal benefit from the construction.

The State has never asked any odds of the Government. Comparatively speaking, she has done more to enchance the wealth of the country than any other State in the Union, and what she has received is by no means commensurate with what she has given. She asks for no more than is asked by other States when she requests that her institutions and her interests be protected. As a State we have nothing to be ashamed of, and whenever we have anything to say, if we are conscientious, the East will hear us.

Thirty times four hundred is twelve thousand, and twelve times twelve thousand is one hundred and forty-four thousand dollars a year, which goes out of Carson every twelve months to be dumped into the coffers of the Six Companies, and then shipped home.

It never comes back except now and then a few hundred dollars to San Francisco to evade the Restriction Act. Is it to be wondered at that merchants of this city complain of hard times.—Carson Appeal.

Ed. Bridges has gone up north to do some surveying for private parties.

Mrs. Towl, mentioned in our report of the proceeding of the Commissioners Tuesday morning as having received $10 from the county, is not Mrs. P. J. Toll, of Reno, but another lady.

Congressman Woodburn has introduced bills to adjudicate the claims of John H. Kinkead and others, for the relief of D. O. Adkison, and to increase the pension of Henry Biederbick.

The Carson Tribune says the new State Printing Office is worth a visit. By advice of Superintendent Harlow the windows have been so arranged as that every part of the interior is thoroughly lit. It is a snug, roomy office, and far superior in appearance to the State Printing Office in Sacramento and is a credit to Mr. Curtis, the architect and builder.

The Old Bonanzas.

The sudden rise in Consolidated California & Virginia has imparted a stronger tone to the long drooping and disgustingly dull Comstock market. This stock has been remarkably steady at $2 and $2 10 per share for several weeks past. It is now up to $2 80. The San Francisco Post says among the brokers the advance is attributed to the large surplus which the Consolidated California & Virginia Company has in the treasury, now amounting to about $150,000, with another large shipment to be received on last month's account, and the probability that some dividends will be declared. It would certainly put more backbone into the situation were one of the companies to disburse a fair amount in dividends, to offset the assessment drain upon shareholders.

Alaska Notes.

The population of Alaska is given at 5,627 whites and 28,000 natives. The Treadwell mine, owned by Senator Jones, W. S. Hobart, J. D. Fry, and others, produced $71,000 from September 17 to October 17. The company has just purchased an adjoining claim for $75,000. There is said to be enough ore in sight to keep the 120 stamp mill running steadily for a hundred years.

Another Purchase by Senator Fair.

Senator Fair (for the Pacific Land Investment Co.) has purchased the block bounded by Broadway, Fourteenth, Fifteenth and Franklin streets, Oakland, Cal., for $250,000, the object being to get a site for a depot. This is supposed to be the future terminus of the Atlantic & Pacific road.

Irrigating Ditch for Inyo.

A company has been formed at Bishop Creek for the purpose of cutting an irrigating ditch. The ditch will begin at a point about seven miles above town; will be carried south across the valley above West Bishop, to the foot of the mountains then along the foothills to a point not yet fixed.

Valentines.

St. Valentine's Day is approaching, and Nasby has received a large assortment of Valentines, from the most elaborate and beautiful to those that are very cheap and grotesque.

Gold Mine Sold.

A few days ago a gold mine situated about four miles from Grantsville was sold to John Centras for $20,000. He contemplates working it right away.

A STATE LEAGUE.

Something Nevada Needs Immediately.

The Carson Appeal of Tuesday says:

The following is the resolution adopted by the Anti-Chinese League in this city on Saturday night:

The resolution was adopted and reads as follows:

Resolved, That the Ormsby county Anti-Chinese League, most respectfully request and invite the citizens of the various counties of this State to form Anti-Chinese Leagues, and when two-thirds of the various counties shall have formed such Leagues, the Presidents of such Leagues shall cause to be called a State Convention to be held for the purpose of organizing a State Anti-Chinese League, and the delegates to this Convention shall consist of the Presidents, Secretaries and Executive Committees of the various Leagues of the State, or as such Leagues may denominate. And be it further resolved and recommended that the names of each League shall be as follows: The one first organized be termed League No. 1, the second organized No. 2, and so on.

Under these resolutions Carson would be No. 1, Reno No. 2 and so on. What town will come to the front as No. 3? The time is ripe to make this a State affair. California is taking hold of it with a will and the Mongolians are hurrying in droves to the Golden Gate, homeward bound.

There should be an Anti-Chinese League started at once in Virginia City which, backed by the strong force of the Miners' Union, would be a great assistance. From the indications now appearing there will be no real opposition to the movement and the riddence of the Chinese will be accomplished without trouble, boycotting or any ultra measure.

The moment this movement takes the form of a State affair as it is now taking in California the opposition will be at an end.

Senator Jones' Coming Speech.

The Free Lance says:

For some years Senator Jones has been the leading exponent of the silver interest in the U. S. Congress. On all questions relating to silver he has been authority. His eminent services on the Silver Commission and his great pro silver speech have given him fame and influence. In investigating the subject the libraries of Europe were overhauled, and the history of coinage studied in the light of past centuries as well as of the present. By some it is estimated that this investigation was made at an expense to Senator Jones or his friends, of not less than $100,000. Little does it concern the public, or affect the Senators deserving whether or not this expense came from his own purse or from that of the Bonanza firm. Through the Senator's influence the investigation was made, and Nevada, and the whole country, is now reaping the fruits of this investigation. The friends of silver throughout the nation will await with solicitude this promised speech.

Free Advertisements.

The San Francisco Post in its issue of Friday publishes the following notice over two columns of advertisements headed "Situations Wanted:"

The Post, in desiring to give substantial, practical support and aid to the movement to drive Chinese out of the trades, will for a few weeks publish gratuitously the names of those desiring work in the lines now filled by Chinamen. In this city it can be readily determined whether the manufacturers' offers to discharge their Chinese employes are made in good faith, or whether they are a sop to the public Cerberus, to effect a temporary compromise on this labor question. It will also demonstrate the truth of the assertions that there are white men, women and girls who are kept out of honorable industries by the coolie labor element.

The Ophir Toll Road.

The lease from Storey county to P. N. Marker of the Washoe turnpike or toll road was read before the Storey County Commissioners Tuesday. The lessee in one place agrees to keep the road in average condition during the Summer, but not to keep it free from snow in the Winter. As Mr. Marker, according to the terms of the lease, did not agree to keep the road in order for travel during the Winter, on motion the lease was rejected. The Clerk was instructed to notify Mr. Marker that if he furnished a lease with an unqualified agreement to keep the road in good repair the Board would accept it.

The Gold Hill Public School.

It is rumored that the Board of School Trustees of Gold Hill have decided to close the public schools in that district on April 1, three months before the expiration of the regular school year. The apportionment will be exhausted on that date, and they refuse to draw on the July apportionment to defray the expense of keeping them open. Should they draw on that sum it will be necessary to levy a special school tax next year.

RIGHT WITH US.

The Times-Review good naturedly attempts to turn the tables on the Gazette and Eureka Sentinel in the discussion of the political morals of the State. It has the hearty support of the Gazette when it says almost in our own words, "We believe—in fact we know—that a majority of the voters in this State are honest and unpurchaseable, and when made to realize the position in which they were placed through their affiliation with the piece-taking element, we are confident they will revolt against the sack method."—Reno Gazette.

It would be still more gratifying to the Times-Review to have the Gazette "right with us," in our effort to make the honest majority element realize that it has, in many instances in the past, played second fiddle to the piece-taking minority, and that it is likely to do so again, unless some concerted action is taken to prevent it. But little headway can, however, be made in that direction, if the press of the State by its silence, tacitly endorses past corruption, and thereby encourages it in the future.—Times-Review.

National Encampment G. A. R.

Commander-in-Chief Burdette, of the Grand Army of the Republic, telegraphed Tuesday evening to Commander R. H. Warfield, at San Francisco, that the National Encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic will be held in San Francisco on Tuesday, August 3, 1886.

Outside of all parliamentary law, and examined under the light of simple reasoning, the demand of the United States Senate to be permitted to examine any and all papers filed with any department of the Government is invincible. If the Houses of Congress do not possess this unqualified right, then the people have erected authority greater than themselves. The legislative body is the supreme representative of the sovereign. No official whatever can lock up the archives of his office and deny the right of that body to examine them, without assuming an attitude of rebellion.—Sac. Record-Union.
